Preface

The major objective of IoBM’s PhD research program is to pursue leading-edge research, engage in the development of innovative ideas and analytical skills, and encourage both faculty and students to be independent and creative thinkers. The outcome of this research program is the production of a real and measurable impact on society and industry through quality research published in impact factor journals and recognized by the industry.

The purpose for compiling this document/manual is to: facilitate the student in understanding the procedural requirements for PhD completion, formalize the procedures related to the requirements of PhD Degree, communicate the procedures for completing the PhD requirements to all stakeholders, have the uniformity in the preparation of Dissertations in all aspects at the Institute/University and to put together all the PhD related forms in one document, and keep them synchronized. All students are expected to follow these guidelines when submitting their respective dissertation for evaluation.

D. PhD Program

The aim of PhD program at IoBM is to promote scholarship, research, and service at an academic level. The doctoral program is one of the highest degree of excellence at the Institute of Business Management for faculty and candidates alike to remain updated in the current research literature, and to conduct social relevant and intellectually competent research in the specialized area. This program will address research competencies with a range of courses in the relevant field.

1. College of Business Management (CBM)
(Human Resources, Management, Marketing and Finance)

PhD Program Structure
Students are supposed to complete a total of 48 credit hours as per HEC criteria in minimum 3 years with 6 courses (18 credit hours) and a dissertation of 30 credit hours. The maximum duration of PhD program is 8 years.

Pre-requisites:
- MPM601 Advanced Qualitative Research
- Research Methodology (those who are deficient or have not done before)
- MPM603 Advanced Quantitative Research
- MPM610 Supervised Research Study (IS/Individual based)
- MPM616 Econometrics

Semester One
- Directed Research Elective I
- Directed Research Elective II
- Exploratory Research Elective I

Semester Two
- Directed Research Elective III
- Directed Research Elective IV
- Exploratory Research Elective II

Semester Three
- Dissertation PBM901 (minimum 5 regular semesters)
  Enrolment in dissertation is necessary to establish residency requirement at the institute. At least five enrollments are required.
Directed Research Elective in Area of Specialization:
The objective of these courses is to enable the PhD students to link their chosen areas of specialization with the philosophy and methodology of business research and to benchmark their proposed research with quality publications.

- PBM701 Philosophy of Business Management
- PBM703 Multivariate Analysis
- PBM705 Readings in Business Research
- PBM707 Replication of Business Research Design and Results
- PBM 708 Directed Study of a Business Research Problem

(Note: The course outlines of PBM703 (Multivariate Analysis) be different than MPM 603 (advance quantitative research). This will be a taught course instead of an IS. The load of three ISs supervision is equivalent to one full load course).

Exploratory Research Electives the Area of Specialization:
PhD students may select the following and/or other PhD level courses from other IoBM departments on the recommendation of the Supervisor or PhD Coordinator. Courses will be offered subject to the minimum enrolment.

- PBM801 Marketing Models
- PBM803 Marketing Theory
- PBM805 Advanced topics in Marketing Management
- PBM811 Advanced Topics in Strategic Management
- PBM813 Advanced Topics in Organizational Theory
- PBM815 Advance Topics in Human Behavior in an Organization
- PBM821 advance Topics in Operations Management and Research
- PBM825 Advanced Topics in Management Information Systems
- PBM831 Advanced topics in Finance
- PBM841 Advance Topics in Human Resources Management
- PBM842 Globalization Discourses of Ethics
- 0000000 International Business

Continuous Enrollment in PhD Dissertation:

- Enrollment in PBM 901 Supervised Research is necessary to establish residency requirement at the Institute.
- At least five enrollments are required. It is expected that the student would complete the following in each such enrollment:
  1. Proposal Defense
  2. Related Research/Literature Review
  3. Model Development and theory and Methodology
  4. Data Collection and Analysis
  5. Theses/Dissertation writing

3.1 Comprehensive Exam Guidelines

The purpose of comprehensive exam is not to test the memory recall of the concepts learned during the course work, but to evaluate the ability to analyze a given problem and be able to design solutions based on established theories and models.

Format:

- The format is designed to evaluate the ability of the students to apply the theories and models learned during the PhD coursework and would be communicated well in advance to the test.
- Paper would be based on the theories studied by the student at the PhD level.
- The paper may include question(s) regarding evaluation and application of theories of at least 10 given research papers to a problem.
- Comprehensive Exam will be open book and may last up to 5-8 hours depending up on the program.

Guidelines for PhD Proposal

A research proposal is a statement of precisely what the researcher is going to investigate and why, and the method he or she is going to follow in answering the questions posed. It deals basically with: (a) What the proposed research is about; (b) What it is trying to find out or achieve; (c) How it will go about doing that; and (d) What we will learn from it and why that is worth learning.

There are no rules governing the form and content of a research proposal. They will vary depending on the unique nature of the problem to be studied. Yet, it is advisable to pay attention to the following step-wise outline for preparing a research proposal.

TITLE: Research proposal title should demarcate the main focus/ or theme of the proposed study.

1. Statement of the Problem: Logically, the first step in any research is to provide a clear statement of the problem. This step is indispensable in the writing process in that it governs the organization and flow of the thesis/dissertation. The purpose statement should provide a synopsis of the purpose of the study, briefly define and delimit the specific area of the research, identify the unit of analysis in the study, and foreshadow the hypotheses to be tested or the questions to be raised. A problem may be stated in terms of a verbal statement, i.e., "The purpose of this research is to examine..." or “This study aims at ascertaining.” Problem could also be stated in the form of a question like: "Why are Muslims divided?" or “What are the factors associated with the rise of hate crime against Muslims in the West?"

2. Background and History: The background and history highlights empirical foundations of research. The purpose of a background/history section is to give the reader the relevant facts about the topic and/or research site so that they understand the material or case in the proposal and how it links to the questions posed.

3. Justification of the Problem: In stating the problem, it is also necessary to specify why it is important and what new insights may be found. What would be its net contribution to the body of knowledge in the field, and/or towards solving the problems of the Society and humanity at large?

4. Literature Review: A review of relevant literature is the third step and is of great significance. The literature review helps relate the proposed study to the larger ongoing discourse in the literature about a phenomenon, filling in gaps in the literature and extending earlier studies. The literature review is neither a chronological summary of related works nor a mere catalogue of previous studies published in the field. Literature review is a well-organized critical appreciation of related and relevant literature conceptually integrated within the logic of the proposed investigation. The student should show whether other researchers have studied the same or similar problems before, from what perspectives have these studies been conducted, and whether these researches have been theoretically or empirically adequate.

5. Theoretical Framework: A research problem should, where possible, be set within the framework of a theory. A “theory” is a collection of interrelated law-like statements or hypotheses aimed at explaining a phenomenon.

Theories suggest hypotheses to be tested. A hypothesis is a conjectural, conditional (if-then) statement linking two or more variables. Hypothesis grows out of theoretical or conceptual frameworks.

The theoretical or conceptual framework and the resultant hypotheses will identify and name the important variables to be studied. The student must identify the variables and define the variables or terms conceptually and operationally.

6. Methods and Procedures: The methods or procedures section is undeniably the heart of the research proposal. Yet, this section of the proposal has received insufficient attention in most of the Master’s or Ph.D. proposals submitted for approval. This section normally includes four main areas: the type of study being conducted, data collection procedures, the sample selection and data analysis.

7. Proposed Chapter Outline: Research proposals also contain tentative chapter outline. It indicates the number of chapters the thesis or dissertation is expected to be composed of. It gives the tentative chapter headings with brief annotations of expected chapter content.

8. References/Bibliography and Appendix: The research proposal must contain a thorough, focused succinct (at least 5 relevant) references and available bibliography. The candidate should follow the APA style. The need for complete documentation generally dictates the inclusion of appropriate appendixes in proposals. The Appendix should contain a copy of the instrument and other documents not readily available.

9. Basic technical requirements: As a rule of thumb, the proposal should not exceed 5,000 words (about 20 typed, double-spaced pages). Nevertheless, the proposal must be of adequate length to describe, in fair detail, the nature of the proposed project as outlined above. For other basic technical requirements (i.e. Endnote/footnoting style, quotations, reference format, transliteration, layout for tables and figures) students are advised to follow APA style.

   A review of relevant literature is the third step and is of great significance. The literature review helps relate the proposed study to the larger ongoing discourse in the literature about a phenomenon, filling in gaps in the literature and extending earlier studies. The literature review is neither a chronological summary of related works nor a mere catalogue of previous studies published in the field. Literature review is a well-organized critical appreciation of related and relevant literature conceptually integrated within the logic of the proposed investigation. The student should show whether other Researchers have studied the same or similar problems before, from what perspectives have these studies been conducted, and whether these researches have been theoretically or empirically adequate.

6. Research Questions and/or Hypothesis

Theories suggest R/Q and hypotheses to be tested. A hypothesis is a conjectural, conditional (if-then) statement linking two or more variables. Hypothesis grows out of theoretical or conceptual frameworks.

7. Research Methodology/Research Design

The methods or procedures section is undeniably the heart of the research proposal. This section normally includes the following main areas:

7.1 Type of Research
7.2 Sampling Method
7.3 Sample Size
7.4 Data Collection and tools
7.5 Data Analyses (Model if any proposed)

8. Proposed Chapter Outline:

Research proposals also contain tentative chapter outline. It indicates the number of chapters the thesis or dissertation is expected to be composed of. It gives the tentative chapter headings with brief annotations of expected chapter content.

9. References, Bibliography and Appendices (if any):

The research proposal must contain a thorough, focused succinct references and bibliography. The candidate should follow the APA style. This will not be counted in total count of words. The need for complete documentation generally dictates the inclusion of appropriate appendices in proposals (if any/required). The Appendix should contain a copy of the instrument and other documents like questionnaire etc. which are not supposed to go in the body of text.

10. Research schedule

Identify the major tasks involved in your proposed study and place and identify the length of time to complete the tasks and the order in which they will be done.

Research Plan:

A tentative research plan is available in the report and discussed by student in his/her presentation which shows overall research targets and how researcher would achieve those within given timeframe. For instance, using Gantt Chart (or any other relevant tool) monthly/quarterly/annual research targets should be presented and number of activities completed at each stage of research.

Comments:

Presentation:

a. Student’s presentation material is informative
b. Student’s answers to questions reflected knowledge of his/her area of study
c. Student clearly explained his/her research work and his communication skills are acceptable
